

Quality Policy Statement

QCS International provides a range of consultancy and training services to its clients in a wide range of business sectors throughout the UK and beyond. Core to its service is assisting companies to develop, install and implement effective management systems that deliver real business benefits, reduce risk and improve performance.

Amongst the specialist services we provide, QCS supports medical device manufacturers and distributors through the provision of a UKRP (UK Responsible Person) service.

The training and consultancy we provide supports companies in the effective implementation of their management systems, equips them with staff that will be effective system managers or auditors and contributes to continual improvement in what they do. Our training covers a wide range of certifiable management systems.

QCS International's management system is certified to ISO9001:2015 and considers the requirements of the standard and its application across its business activities.

QCS International is also an approved training partner of the CQI and the International Register of Certificated Auditors (IRCA).

Our quality management system and this policy assures you that:

- We have clearly developed processes that deliver what we promise within the timescale specified.
- We constantly review and update our training courses to bring you the very latest information.
- We listen to you and monitor our performance to continually improve on our services.

QCS International's staff, consultants and trainers are highly qualified industry experts with experience across a wide range of business sectors. We maintain competence and expertise through continuous professional development.

QCS International ensures that it considers and meets all statutory and regulatory requirements applicable to the delivery of its services and considers the needs and expectations of interested parties.

Through the application of best practice QCS sets challenging quality objectives which inform our approach to continually improving the service we provide to you.

A handwritten signature in dark ink, appearing to read 'Ian Phillips', is positioned above the printed name.

Ian Phillips
Managing Director
QCS International
Reviewed 14th April 2025